Creative Director, Brand Creative & Visual Storyteller

I believe that great design is about connections. With three decades of experience under my belt, I've helped both startups and global companies build brands that actually mean something to their audiences. I'm not just a creative director who points from the sidelines; I love being hands-on and getting my hands dirty. Give me a fast-paced environment, a clear strategy, and a creative challenge, and I'll give you a brand that performs.
